Dr. Lange made significant contribution with her monograph The Syntax of Spoken Indian English (2012). Focus marking, Grammaticalization, Reflexivity and Intensifications have been special areas in Dr. Lange's research on Post colonial Englishes in general and Indian English in particular. Her research work has been a close critique of the expansion of the non-native Englishes from norms to standardization. Moreover Dr. Lange encourages computational techniques such as concordance software in linguistic research. Introduction to Corpus Linguistics and New Englishes are among the frequently offered courses by Dr. Lange to the research students. Dr. Lange's more than ten years of association with premier Indian universities and linguistic plurality gives her the benefit of engaging Indian researchers and students more pragmatically.
