

European and Italian Corporate Law

Overview

This course examines some European law aspects of corporate law, with a specific focus on Italian corporate law. The course analyses the harmonized areas of company law in Europe, and discuss common features of and variation in national corporate law practices across Europe.

In that context, it will be analyzed the importance of the Italian Corporate law provisions and the civil law system in the European process of harmonization. The course will cover the principal aspects of Italian corporate law, also making a comparison with specific aspects of corporate law provisions of other EU Members.

This course examines also documents and materials related to concrete transactions made by international law firms, in order to provide some tools for the application of the legal knowledge during the day-by-day activities of a corporate lawyer.

Aims:

- To provide a general knowledge of the European law aspects of corporate law;
- To understand the main differences between common law and civil law systems in the EU context;
- To provide an overview of the Italian corporate law system, from a legal and economics perspective;
- To help young lawyers to deal with the corporate law practice of an international law firm.
